Resources:

Sexual Abuse Prevention Project: This curriculum teaches the students about safe and unsafe touches, defines the different types of child abuse and neglect, who children can talk to if they have a problem (support system) and stresses that child abuse and neglect are not the child's fault. We also talk about feelings and how to identify problems such as child abuse and neglect. We also have Fact Sheets on how parents can talk to their children about sexual abuse and tips on Internet Safety. Please contact us for more information on this class or for Fact Sheets.

Stewards of Children: I am also an authorized facilitator for Stewards of Children, a sexual abuse prevention training that I think all parents should attend. And I am also an authorized facilitator for the ACT Against Violence Program/Parents Raising Safe Kids: which is a parenting program that teaches parents how to create safe environments for children. This is a violence prevention program that focuses on early violence prevention and shows the impact that violence has on children while they are in the process of developing.
