

Overcoming Hurdles in Ohio Youth Advisory Board

The OHIO Youth Advisory Board

Annual Report:

June 2008-April 2009

We exist to be the knowledgeable statewide voice that influences policies and practices that effect all youth who have or will experience out of home care.

Introduction:

In the short years, since its inception, The OHIO (Overcoming Hurdles in Ohio) Youth Advisory Board has changed the culture and nature of the advocacy work throughout Ohio. With energy, enthusiasm and a commitment above all else to make the foster care system in Ohio better for their brothers and sisters in care today they have led the way to giving youth a voice in the state of Ohio.

The group has convened on a statewide level, adopted a name, developed a mission statement, adopted bylaws, and elected officers. They have formed regional membership groups that meet several times a year. They have also created a strategic plan.

Their mission of advocating on behalf of other foster youth in Ohio and across the country has been demonstrated in many activities such as meeting with members of Congress, presenting at various conferences, and working with members of the Ohio General Assembly. In 2007, the youth successfully advocated for the extension of Medicaid for foster youth until they are 21. Testimony from the Youth Board members is still recalled by legislators with great respect. This group has never stopped working to empower youth across the state to bring their voice and experience to the table when foster care is being discussed. The main components of the OHIO Advisory Board's work are advocacy, public education, and leadership development and employment opportunities. Our youth have been extremely successful and below is a summary of activities for June 2008-April 2009.

The goal of the workgroups are to increase youth likelihood of becoming productive and responsible adults. Topics included: access to college and post-secondary education, access to driver's education and driver's licenses, access to affordable and safe housing, access to workforce training, access to and expansion of Medicaid health coverage, and increasing the availability of mentoring services. OHIO Youth Advisory Board Recommendations:

- Courts: Give youth an opportunity to speak to the judge about their case. Ensure meaningful interaction with court appointed special advocates (CASAs) or guardian ad litem (GALs) prior to them representing youth. Youth should be present whenever a move for them is being considered at court or elsewhere.
- Normalcy: Foster parents need the authority to make certain decisions for foster youth, such as whether or not the youth can spend the night at a friend's house, whether they can leave the county, if they can date, etc. Foster youth need to complete driver's education prior to their release, or prior to aging out of foster care.
- Independent Living Skills: Agencies need to give youth, core opportunities to gain hands-on, real life experience paying bills, managing a checking account, obtaining housing, and accessing public transportation, etc. so they will be prepared to transition out of foster care.
- Siblings: Keep siblings together when at all possible. Absolutely maintain strong, regular contact between siblings (and other kin) when placed apart.
- Mental Health: Strongly consider a need for youth to have continuity with the same therapist especially in a new placement. Provide accessible, in-home, community based mental health services for youth in foster care. Caseworkers and foster parents should receive increased training in mental health issues. Provide support groups and group work opportunities for foster youth.
- Communication: Foster youth need to be able to contact their caseworker directly. Meetings concerning the youth should include the youth, foster parent and caseworker. Meetings regarding reunification should include the youth's parent, or parents, the foster parent and the caseworker.
- Foster Parents: Foster parents need to participate in training and meet strict qualifications. Foster parents need to be evaluated on an ongoing basis. Foster parents should be observed interacting with youth before they become licensed.
