Athens County Department of Job and Family Services
Effective Date 10/01/15 (revised 09/22/15)

Goal

The goal is to provide an assistance program to families while encouraging self-sufficiency and preventing dependency. The program is designed to operate with as much flexibility as possible for the eligibility worker and the family needing assistance.

Services will be designed to meet one of four purposes of TANF:

- 1) To provide assistance to needy families so that children may be cared for in their own homes or in the homes of relatives;
- 2) To end dependence of needy parents on government benefits by promoting job preparation, work and marriage;
- 3) To prevent and reduce the incidence of out-of-wedlock pregnancies and establish annual numerical goals for preventing and reducing the incidence of these pregnancies; and
- 4) To encourage the formation and maintenance of two-parent families.

45 C.F.R. Section 260.20

Economic Need

A means-tested individual eligibility determination for any services provided under TANF Purposes 1 & 2 will be conducted. Unless specified otherwise, the total countable income of all members of the PRC assistance group must be equal to or less than the 100% Federal Poverty guidelines based upon family size. Different income guidelines may be set for individual programs as specified in the special program description.

Summary of Athens County PRC program policies:

Authorized services will be provided for one-time-only or short-term services and will be issued through vendor pay arrangements only.

The Poverty Level is adjusted annually by the Department of Health and Human Services and takes effect on the date posted by that department. The Monthly Federal Poverty Guideline amount is used to determine income eligibility for PRC. Unless specified otherwise, the total countable income of all members of the PRC assistance group must be equal to or less than the 100% Federal Poverty guidelines based upon family size.

Medical expenses are not eligible for PRC funding with the exception of pre-pregnancy family planning services (PL 104-193).

Family Emergency Assistance (FEA) funds will be utilized for those unavoidable financial crises or disasters that occur and which the family income cannot be expected to cover, contingent upon available funding, under TANF Purpose 1. FEA funds will usually be authorized for necessities that ensure the safety, health and well-being of family members. Examples of necessities might include, but not limited to, housing, utilities, deposits, emergency repairs, replacement of household items lost in a fire or flood, etc. FEA will be targeted to families whose income is at or below 100% Poverty Level.

Need is generally viewed as existing when the circumstances which precede the financial crisis appear to be unavoidable or unexpected. The appearance of contrived or planned financial emergencies will result in denial for PRC services. The PRC payment will be authorized when verified financial eligibility exists along with the determination of emergent need, as defined by the eligibility worker.

Eligibility for PRC services

Individuals prevented from receiving PRC are listed in the attached Addendum A.

The PRC assistance group must be TANF eligible which may include, but not limited to: a household containing a child and relative caretaker (a minor under the age of eighteen years, or under the age of nineteen if the child is still enrolled in high school); a non-custodial parent cooperating with the Child Support Enforcement Agency; households containing a pregnant woman; or an agency serving TANF eligible families. A PRC assistance group is defined as those persons who reside together within a dwelling or household.

For those who are accessing the Family Emergency Assistance (FEA), the income guideline will be 100% of the Federal Poverty Level.

Other special projects that require income guidelines will utilize income guidelines as stated in each project description.

All income received within the household is considered "countable" for PRC purposes.

Deductions from income will include: child support paid for a child outside the assistance group; all income that is federally excluded in the determination of eligibility for federal needs-based programs. Federally excluded income includes the following: drug discounts and transitional assistance received under the Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement, and Modernization Act; and monetary allowances for certain children with covered birth defects paid under the Veteran's Benefits and Health Care Improvement Act of 2000. Eligibility will be determined by totaling all income of the household members for the past 30 days. If the assistance group meets this standard, they are considered financially eligible. Written or verbal verification of income may be required.

It is expected that the family's liquid resources (i.e.: cash on hand, savings accounts, etc.) will be utilized to meet the emergent need for the FEA program, prior to or in conjunction with PRC. Other community resources may be explored and whenever possible, utilized for the emergent need.

For services directed to purpose 3 or 4, services are provided without regard to income, notices regarding adverse action will not apply.

All PRC applicants/recipients will be offered the opportunity to register to vote.

Each person applying for PRC must provide the county agency with a social security number, or apply for a social security number. Providing a number is a condition of receipt of TANF and is required under Section 1137(a) of the Social Security Act.

In order to receive PRC benefits and services, at least one member of the PRC assistance group (AG) must be a citizen of the United States or a qualified alien as defined in rule 5101:1-2-30 of the Ohio Administrative Code. See also Section 403(a) of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act (PRWORA) of 1996.

Maximum benefits for FEA

The eligibility worker will decide how much assistance will be authorized, up to a maximum of $300 for FEA expenses. Benefits may be paid out for one-time assistance in subsequent emergencies during the 12 month period, providing that the maximum benefit is not exceeded. More than one vendor may be paid during an emergency, up to the maximum dollar amount.

The 12 month eligibility period begins with the application date of the authorized application for PRC services.

Approval or denial of FEA

The county determination of eligibility will usually be made within 3 working days of the receipt of an application. In general, assistance will be approved or denied sooner than 3 days, upon receipt of necessary verification. Applicants for PRC assistance will be issued proper notice, i.e., approval/denial, in accordance with program rules with state hearing rights.
