

Federal Regulations

Question:

Does this mean that if I follow the “common rule,” for my program that I am ok?

Answer:

Not necessarily. Agencies still develop program specific rules, which may have provisions which differ from the common rule. However, for general administrative tasks, the common rule is usually applicable.